Does "reversed" mean that the first page of the PDF is the last page of the document?

Mike and Strefan,

Please advise regarding Mr. Riskin's latest request. We have provided him documents for CPRA Request CD13.2017.03.25.a via scan, but he is now saying that the documents are "reversed" (we are not sure what that means).

My understanding is we are only required to provide the documents themselves, which we have done, and are under no obligation to provide them in some kind of order.

Please advise regarding the above and how we can respond.

Thank you,

Thanks, Dan, but the pages are reversed, which I realize is *super* easy to do by mistake! Since for some reason you chose to scan these pdfs from paper printouts, if you can't fix this I will still need to come in and make my own scans with the pages in the right order.

thanks again for all your help!
